College Activities – Highlights

- With the University, the College of Humanities and Social Science sponsored of the inaugural Montclair Literary Festival on March 31 and April 1, 2017, in support of the nonprofit Succeed2gether. The Festival kicked off on the campus of Montclair State University with a talk by Trevor Noah, author of Born a Crime and host of The Daily Show.
- Faculty in the College also participated in the Festival through speaking on panels and give lectures including Claudia Cortese, David Galef, Patricia A. Matthew, Joseph Rathgeber, Jason M. Williams and Leslie Wilson.
- In November, 2016, Raul Galoppe (Spanish) brought the College a special evening with the talk An Evening with Dr. Ruth K. Westheimer.
- The College launched the Center for Digital Humanities to promote digital humanities research and scholarship; extend grant opportunities to CHSS faculty, staff, and students; and provide advanced technological capabilities to facilitate this work.
- The Department of Anthropology organized a Valentine's Day Rally (Feb. 14): "You are Welcome Here" to celebrate the diversity of our campus community. Approximately 75 people gathered in the campus amphitheater to voice support for Muslim students and affirm the commitment to a diverse and inclusive campus community.
- Through the sustained efforts of Fran Prezant, and the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders, the ReelAbilities Montclair festival was hosted on campus through a Special Initiative Grant Award from the Kessler Foundation of West Orange.
- The Linguistics department became the second New Jersey University to sponsor a North American Computational Linguistics Olympiad (NACLO) site in January, thanks to the efforts of Linguistics faculty Anna Feldman and Eileen Fitzpatrick, among others.
- Through leadership from our Student Affairs team (Assistant Dean Yolanda Alvarez, Courtney Cunningham and Jessica Brandt), the College hosted its first Faculty – Student Mixer to welcome new freshman in our majors.
- The Student Affairs team developed and implement "Lightning Talks": brief classroom visits to inform students about academic and career support opportunities.
- An amplification teaching lab was established this year through donations from various hearing aid companies and Hackensack Audiology and Hearing Aid Associates, an effort spearheaded by Maryrose McInerney and Maris Applebaum of Communication Sciences and Disorders.
- Several new scholarships and awards were created this year, thanks to the generosity of alumni, family members of former students, and friends of the College. These include, the Johnny Muller Memorial Scholarship in Fiction, a $1,000 sum open to any undergraduate at MSU.
- Clinics in the Communication Sciences and Disorders department have once increased their support of community members and their families, while providing requisite training opportunities for students in the departments' programs.
  - The Audiology Clinic has worked with over 600 clients this year
  - The Speech Language Clinic has worked with approximately 300 individuals, including individuals participating in a new Aphasia Book Club program.

- The Biofeedback Treatment Clinic provides innovative services for special populations.
- Tina Bollettieri, Director of the CHSS Non-Credit ESL program, is working with the Montclair Neighborhood Development Corporation (MNDC)'s "Reaching Out Montclair" in conjunction to offer a 10-week pilot ESL program to Montclair residents this summer.
- The Arabic Program ran several highly successful events, including one focused on Arab women with the Arab feminist, activist, and journalist Ayat Oraby; another, "The Grand Bazaar," in which the Middle East was brought to campus with performances, food donated by Al Basha Restaurant in Paterson, eyebrow threading, henna, and more; and several Arab movie events.
- Political Science professor, Elizabeth Wishnick, hosted Dr. Paul Heer, career intelligence official and China expert, to the edification of students, faculty, and guests.
- The Political Science department hosted an Election Night, headlined by Nyiri Zsolt, from 7 pm to 12 pm, offering analysis to students and attendees.
- Sandra Lewis (Psychology; Director of the African American Studies program) and Sandra Collins (Psychology) served as faculty escorts for students traveling to the Office of Equity and Diversity's trip to the National Museum of African American History and Culture.
- The Philosophy department's Philosophy for Lunch, a monthly discussion group for Philosophy majors, minors and friends, has become a popular event in the University community, so much so that this year the program took a trip off campus to the Montclair Public Library where residents joined MSU philosophers.
- The Psychology department has provided assessments and interventions to 60 clients through the University's Clinical Services Center, a community based mental health and training facility located at 137 Clove Road.
- The Sociology department's annual Research Gathering showcased 22 student posters, and two students, Kevn Ha and Jonathan Zipf, had their posters accepted for the Eastern Sociological Society conference in February.
- The New York State Unified Court System chose MSU among many universities in the NY/NJ area to take part in an internship during Spring 2017. Eleven students from our Certificate Program in Translation in Spanish were part of that select group of participants. The results were positive and the NYS Court System invited MSU to participate again next fall in a more intense and advanced legal court interpreting credit-based internship. Five students have signed up to participate.
- Italian majors and minors translated numerous articles for online newspapers and magazines, including one entry published in Beloved Writing. Fifty Years of Engagement. Writing Like Breathing I. A Homage to Dacia Maraini (2016). They also participated in subtitling collaborations with faculty from MSU and Macerata.
- The Writing Studies department hosted a "departmental showcase" in April 2017, where students, faculty, and staff could visit our event to learn more about what we offer. Thematically-based tables at the event included: research in Writing Studies; First Year Writing; Workshop; the Professional and Public Writing minor; Live Lit; creative writing; multimodal composition; writing and the environment; and embodied writing practices. The event drew a consistently large crowd and attracted a number of students who are interested in further pursuing the discipline. Organized by Rick Reid, the department also created a video for the showcase that details how/why writing is important in the workplace: <https://youtu.be/b-1Jw1MQYXo>.
