Full Job Description

It's a great time to join Marymount University! We are looking for faculty and staff who are passionate about providing excellent service to ensure a high quality student experience and collaborative working environment.

JOB SUMMARY

The Marymount University College of Business, Innovation, Leadership, and Technology (BILT) invites applications for tenure-track assistant professor positions within the College. Candidates with competencies in accounting, leadership, organizational development, entrepreneurship or strategy, with demonstrable teaching and scholarly interest will be given fullest consideration.

Faculty are expected to teach high quality courses in online and face-to-face settings. The College's assistant professors have the opportunity to work with doctoral students, as well as undergraduate and master's level students in our student-centric, agile environment. The most desirable candidates will be interested in conducting high impact research with our faculty in our commitment to advancing research across disciplines in business, technology, and entrepreneurship. The College of BILT is located at Marymount University's Ballston Center in the heart of one of Arlington's business districts. Our college is committed to preparing students for the industries in our community from startups to large established companies, including Amazon HQ2. Marymount University is centrally located in one of the largest growing technology communities in the country with ample consulting and research opportunities in the Washington D.C. market.

The School of Business is accredited by the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP) and is the candidacy phase of AACSB International (AACSB) accreditation with the strategic support of Marymount's Board of Trustees.

Marymount University welcomes and values all members of our community. Guided by the mission of our founders, the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Mary (RSHM), to achieve unity through diversity, Marymount honors our diversity as a source of strength. Our differences inspire intellectual curiosity and collectively allow us to tackle the challenges of the world. We seek to foster an inclusive community in which each person's race, ethnicity, religion, sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, veteran status, age, ability, class, national origin, and immigration status are fully respected and celebrated. According to the vision of the RSHM that "ALL may have life, and have it to the FULL," we strive to create an atmosphere of mutual respect, cooperation, and civility where all community members are S.A.I.N.T.S—Safe, Accepted, Included, Needed, Treasured, and Seen.

Please submit a letter of interest describing your academic and professional experiences, scholarly interests and teaching philosophy; a current C.V.; and a list of three professional references where prompted.
