

Fall 2004 Global Education Grant Awards

Robert Aldridge of the Music Department received a grant to bring and international visiting scholar, the Slovakian violinist Boris Kucharsky from Germany, in February for concerts and masterclasses.

Jean Alvares of the Classics and General Humanities Department received a grant to “The Coming of Age and Political Accommodation in Greek and Latin novels” in Greece in May at the Rethymnon International Conference on the Ancient Novel.

Catherine Bebout of the Art & Design Department received a travel grant for developing collaborations with Eastern Europe in Hungary, Slovakia and Czech Republic in March.

Fred Cohen of the Music Department received a travel grant for a recruitment program expansion in Shanghai and Beijing, at the Shanghai Conservatory of Music and the Central Conservatory of Music in Beijing in China in April.

Mary Ann Craig of the Music Department received a travel grant to be a guest conductor for the Russian Wind Band Conducting Seminar in Russia in February.

Suresh A Desai of the Economics and Finance Department received a grant to present a paper “Emerging Global Economic Order: Trend and Prospect” at the SBUS conference in May in South Korea.

Charles Feldman of the Human Ecology Department received a grant to develop of a new course for the Food Management program on "International Cuisine: Heartland Italy" in Italy in March.

Jeffrey Gall of the Music Department received a grant for exploring South American singing traditions at the University of Rio de Janeiro and the Institute of the Teatro Colón (Buenos Aires) in Brazil; Argentina in May.

Raul A. Galoppe of the Spanish/Italian Department received a grant to attend the Oxford Round Table and participate in a session focusing on women’s rights, to be held in England in August.

Nancy Goldring of the Art & Design Department received a grant for a solo exhibition, lectures and workshops at the Liceo Classico di Parma, in Italy in late February to early March.

Karen D. Goodman of the Music Department received a travel grant to participate in and present a paper on “The Leap from Theory to Application: Undergraduate Course Content and Therapy Supervision” at the 11th World Music Therapy Congress in Australia in July.

Maughn Gregory of the Educational Foundations Department received a grant coordinate and to present a paper titled "Philosophy for Children and Human Health" at the 2004 Bi-Annual Meetings of International Council for Philosophical Inquiry with Children in Mexico in July.

Dawn Marie Hayes of the History Department received a travel grant July for development of a Sicily Summer Study Abroad Program in Italy.

Rita D. Jacobs of the English Department received a travel grant for fostering a relationship between MSU and Debrecen University, for meetings to be held in Hungary and the Czech Republic in March.

Eileen Kaplan of the Management Department received a grant to present a paper "Facilitators and Constraints in the Global Transfer of Knowledge: Examining the Role of International Assignments at the SBUS conference in May in South Korea.

Sang-Hoon Kim of the Economics and Finance Department received a grant to present a paper "The Impact of Interest Rates on Tax Incentive Policy and Inducement of Foreign Investment" at the SBUS conference in May in South Korea.

Megan Laverty of the Educational Foundations Department received a grant to present a paper on Iris Murdoch's Romantic Ethics and Literature at the 29th Annual Conference of the International Association for Philosophy and Literature in Finland in June.

Phillip LeBel of the Economics and Finance Department received a grant to present a paper "Optimal Choices for Risk Management: The Economic Value of Institutional Reform in Globalizing Economics" at the MSU-cosponsored conference in May in South Korea.

Illya Lichtenberg of the Sociology Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "Criminal Exploitation of Women & Children" at the International Police Executive Symposium in Thailand in April, and also for internationalization of the Justice Studies curriculum.

Richard A Lord of the Economics and Finance Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "Managerial Equity Holdings, Compensation and Financial Leverage" at the European conference of the Financial Management Association conference in Italy in June.

Aboubaker Seddik Meziani of the Economics and Finance Department received a travel grant to present the paper "Exchange-Traded Funds in China: Strategies and Pitfalls" at the MSU-cosponsored conference in S. Korea in May.

Ram Misra of the Information and Decision Sciences Department received a travel grant to present a paper and coordinate a Pre-Conference session on Information Technology during the 9th International Conference on Global Business and Economic Development in South Korea.

Peter Pastor of the History department received a travel grant to develop educational ties with Hungary as part of a delegation in March.

The Shanghai Quartet (Weigang Li, Yi-Wen Jiang, Honggang Li and Nicholas Tzavaras) of the Music Department received a travel grant to develop relations between MSU and The Conservatories in Shanghai and Beijing, China.

Glenville Rawlins of the Economics and Finance Department received a travel grant to present a paper "Dollarize or Maintain and Existing Domestic Currency: Modeling the Choice Facing Developing Countries" at the MSU-cosponsored conference in South Korea.

Rabia Redouane of the French, German, and Russian Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "Bilingualism in Composing: A Study of Language Codeswitching in L2 French Writing" at the 5th International Symposium on Bilingualism to be held in Spain in March.

Dajin Wang of the Computer Science Department received a travel grant for developing a Joint Education Program with Shanghai Institute of Technology in China in July.

Longxing Wei (Linguistics), Sally E McWilliams (English), and Nancy R Tumposky (Curriculum & Teaching) jointly received a travel grant to develop an international collaborative program for content-based English instruction for training faculty at East China Normal University in China in July.

Eric J. Weiner of the Early Childhood and Elementary Education Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "The Power of Work and the Work of Power: Teaching for Critical Consciousness in the Age of Neoliberalism" at the Twelfth International Conference on Learning to be held at the University of Granada in Spain in July.

Mark Weinstein of the Educational Foundations Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "A Model for Truth in Inquiry" in Italy in July at the International Pragmatics Association Conference.

Ruben Z. Xing of the Information and Decision Sciences Department received a travel grant to present a paper titled "Broadband-A hurdle for U.S. Business Moves" at the MSU co-sponsored conference in South Korea in May.

James E. Yao of the Information and Decision Sciences Department received a travel grant to present a paper at the MSU co-sponsored conference in S. Korea on "Online vs. Two-Way Interactive Video Attitudes of Students".