

Women in the Holocaust

Women as Fierce Resisters, Survivors, and Rescuers during the Holocaust: A Workshop for Educators

WHY ATTEND THIS PROGRAM?

The Nazi regime subjected women to violence that was unique to the gender of the victims, and examining the Holocaust through this lens creates a more nuanced understanding and insight into the use of gender as a weapon. This program explores the unique experiences of women as they focused on daily survival, refused to be dehumanized, and were often at the heart of the resistance, whether spiritual, cultural, or armed.

"The ultimate job of a teacher is to make connections to your students with the curriculum. You want them to walk away with a personal sense of responsibility. Echoes & Reflections helps me do that."
