Wage: $1,000 for 6 weeks

Start Date: 6/1/2017

End Date: 9/1/2017

Job Description: New content site is looking for writers interested in future modes of mobility – driverless vehicles, drones, the connected car. You’ll have an opportunity to write articles about the players and innovations taking place in this space, plus the larger impact they’ll have. Projected Hours Per Week: 10-15 hours.

Primary Responsibilities:

• Collect and analyze facts on topics
• Conduct research and interview sources for stories
• Write articles that meet deadlines

Qualifications:

• Looking for naturally curious, emerging writers who are comfortable with technology terminology
• Must have ability to research current news, gather facts and organize articles
• Strong writing skills necessary
• Be a self-starter who can manage time and meet deadlines
• Writing experience preferred

Application Instructions: Send resume and two writing samples to Gina Larson-Stoller, Editor, at gina@dryve.com.

About the Organization: Dryve gives its readers a window into the products, services, rules, players and innovation that will change the way we drive. We strive to provide thoughtful commentary on what the impact of these changes will bring.
