

ENWR583 Teaching Writing Through Literature

This course considers the best theories and practices for teaching writing through literature. Students will also examine the social and historical intersections of literary studies and writing pedagogy.