The John J. Cali School of Music is a comprehensive, professional school of music centered on preparing the creative leaders of tomorrow.

DEDICATED TO A PREMIER ARTISTIC AND ACADEMIC EDUCATION

Exceptional conservatory-level training offered in superb facilities—this is what you will find in the John J. Cali School of Music. Choosing from majors in performance, jazz studies, composition, music education, and music therapy, you'll study with world-class musicians dedicated to your artistic and personal growth. You'll mix rigorous course work with focused private lessons and challenging repertory and rigorous coursework. And because the School presents more than 300 performances each year, you'll play or sing plenty of concerts—and not just on campus. Our students perform in prestigious venues like Carnegie Hall, often sharing the stage with professional ensembles like the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra. What's more, international tours have taken them from Austria to Australia. A world of opportunity is waiting for you in the School of Music.

85% of undergraduates gain entrance into the masters program of their choice.

from New York City, an abundant resource of working professional and internationally renowned professors. It's just a quick train ride for faculty and students to the cultural capital of the world.

FACILITIES

The Cali School of Music makes its home in the 1928 Spanish Mission Style building at the main entrance to the campus. It was renovated and expanded in 2009 to include large rehearsal spaces and the 225-seat Jed Leshowitz Recital Hall. It accommodates nearly 500 students in its classrooms, rehearsal studios and practice rooms. Chapin Hall is named in honor of the John J. Cali family whose generous $5 million gift provides scholarships and faculty support.

WORLD-CLASS FACULTY

Learn from nationally and internationally renowned musicians and music educators. Work closely with dedicated faculty to perfect your craft through theory, practice, and performance.

IT'S ALL HERE

Montclair State is home to six performance halls, four exhibition spaces, and a broadcast and digital media complex. Each year, our campus hosts hundreds of performances, speaker events, media productions, and art exhibitions. Close by, the town of Montclair bustles with galleries, cinemas, performing arts companies, and the nationally recognized Montclair Art Museum—and just minutes away by train is New York City, the arts and cultural capital of the world.
