Irma Hidayana
I come from Indonesia, a developing country in South East Asia. I have been away from school for more than 10 years, and during that period of time, I worked for a non-profit organization that focus on promoting breastfeeding. Being years away from school made me in a mixed feeling situation when I knew that I was accepted in MSU in 2013: both excited and nervous. Excited because I really wanted to learn about breastfeeding and public health in a well-structured environment (school, not in a work place), and I was nervous because I am not a young person anymore to go back to school.
