

SPRING 2017

New Course on

Human Rights and International Justice

includes a Study Abroad Program over Spring Break

REGISTER NOW!

New Selected Topics Course in Justice Studies

JUST 398-04
(Call Number 28226)

Spring 2017
Tuesday/Friday 2:30 pm – 3:45 pm

What is waiting for you in this course?

Have you ever wondered why some individuals are protected from harm by law, while others suffer human rights abuses? Why has the international community failed to address the current global refugee crisis fueled by the Syrian Conflict? These and many other questions are at the heart of this course on issues related to human rights, international justice and memory politics.

We will look at historical conflicts, social injustice, and political oppression in a global context. Over spring break students have the opportunity to travel to Croatia in Southeast Europe to gain hands-on experience and learn more about different issues discussed in class.

This course is offered by Professor Arnaud Kurze who teaches in the Department of Justice Studies.

For more information please email Professor Arnaud Kurze at kurzea@montclair.edu

